UN Aid Ready

More Nations Sending Troops

LAKE SUCCESS, July 26—A formidable United Nations expeditionary force for Korea possibly totalling as high as 60,000 men shaped up today as Britain promised troops, armor, artillery and engineering forces.

Members of the world organization began pledging their assistance to General MacArthur following the lead taken by little Thailand, which promised a crack combat team of 4,000 officers and men.

Turkey offered 4,500 men. Both Australia and New Zealand pledged trained combat troops.

Estimates of the ultimate size of the UN army varied from 40,000 to 60,000 men. Consultations took place between the various governments and the Unified Command.

It was emphasized that some delay will take place before the UN expeditionary force can be put into the field. The announcement of British aid by Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell in London said it cannot be sent "at a moment's notice," but will be made available as quickly as possible.

UN officials already are making plans for transportation of the Turkish unit to the Far East.

Turkey—next door neighbor to Russia and long-time target of Soviet expansionism—placed the troops at the disposal of MacArthur and the UN last night.

In a cablegram to UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie, Turkish Foreign Minister Koprulu said the offer of the troops was made "in the interests of general peace" and to enforce the Security Council's decisions on Korea.

The Turkish army, which is largely U. S. equipped and which has been to a large extent trained by the U. S., is believed one of the best among the forces of the smaller powers.

SELM SARPER, Turkish delegate to the UN, prepared to discuss with UN officials details of the transport of the troops to the Far East. It was believed the UN may take advantage of Norway's offer of shipping.

The Turkish troop offer followed Thailand's announcement that it will contribute 4,000 soldiers to the UN forces. Other United Nations members are still considering Lie's request July 15 for help in Korea.

Meanwhile, a Unified Command spokesman at UN predicted that, despite public fears, U. S. forces will maintain a strong foothold on the Korean peninsula pending a buildup of offensive strength.

The high-ranking spokesman from Washington briefed UN correspondents in amplifying MacArthur's report to the Security Council.

The report, which underlined the fact that Russian resources are supporting the North Koreans, has been referred to the various governments for careful appraisal.

The Security Council agreed to consider the need for all to contribute to drive the invaders back to the 38th Parallel. Some delegates believe the U. S. may be getting ready on the basis of the report to indict Russia in the Security Council on charges of wilful breaches of the peace.

The Unified Command spokesman emphasized that every bit of aid from ground troops to supplies being contributed by UN governments will be fitted into the pattern of future Korean operations. He said that there is no cause for alarm in the current withdrawals of American forces and that the "holding" operations are still in process. He stated:

"Anyone who feels there is a Dunkirk in sight is seriously mistaken."

Candidate Files

Petition seeking election to the job of Pickaway County auditor was filed Tuesday in the board of elections office by James Allan Eagleton of 702 North Pickaway street.

Eagleton, first in the county to file as an independent, will oppose Fred Tipton, Republican incumbent, in the election next November.

Airforce Sends Out Calls For Active Duty Status

WASHINGTON, July 26—Airforce calls to active duty were added today to those of the Army and Navy in the Defense Department's drive to bolster the nation's fighting strength by 600,000 men.

Military spokesmen said the U. S. is prepared to send 500,000 troops to Korea as necessary to support an overwhelming offensive next Spring.

Last of the three services to announce its plan, the Airforce said yesterday that it is calling up a "very limited number" of Reserve units and is summoning individual Reservists in all categories.

The Airforce Reservists will be given ten days plus travel time to wind up their civilian affairs.

The Army is granting 30 days, and the Navy varying lengths of time according to need.

An Airforce spokesman said that between 80,000 and 100,000 Reservists will be summoned.

The air arm has a total of 350,000 Reservists. Of these, 68,000

Probe Of State Aide Demanded By Congressman

WASHINGTON, July 26—Rep. Velde, (R) Ill., said today he will urge the House Un-American Activities Committee to investigate the case of Edward G. Posnani, State Department economist accused by Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., of being a Communist.

McCarthy meanwhile offered to testify before the Un-American Activities Committee in connection with his Communist-infiltration charges, which were branded false by majority members of a Senate investigating committee.

SEN. MORSE, (R) Ore., stated earlier that "the burden of the proof is on McCarthy." Morse contended that "up to date, the charges have not been sustained."

McCarthy said he is turning over his "proof" to the committee that Edward G. Posnani, State Department economist, was considered a Communist by an undercover FBI agent, an FBI informant and others.

Furthermore, McCarthy said, he is turning up other "evidence" on persons named in his famous "81 cases" and others in the State Department which he will present on the Senate floor from time to time.

The Wisconsin senator said that one of these persons is now working for the State Department's Voice of America in Berlin.

Posnani, an international economist for the State Department who was formerly with the Justice Department and the Office of Strategic Services, immediately denied McCarthy's charges emphatically that he is or was a Communist.

"I have been opposed to Communism, of which I was an early victim, all my life, and I deeply resent the vicious and libelous charges that the senator has made against me under cover of congressional immunity."

FULL MOBILIZATION NEEDED

Put Ceilings On Entire Economy, Baruch Urges

WASHINGTON, July 26—Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch urged Congress today to impose an over-all ceiling across the entire economy—including prices, wages, rents and fees—and organize for all-out mobilization.

NAVY SPOKESMEN said that the funds provided in the President's $10.5 billion request of Congress will enable the sea forces to add slightly more than 200,000 men.

This would include an additional 50,000 Marines, and approximately 150,000 regular Navy men. If the Airforce calls slightly less than 100,000, the Army could expand by 300,000 through the draft and volunteer enlistments.

SEN. MORSE, (R) Ore., stated earlier that "the burden of the proof is on McCarthy." Morse contended that "up to date, the charges have not been sustained."

The regulations were discussed fully at a lengthy cabinet session yesterday.

"Everyone," he continued, "cities and states are searching desperately for the means of raising salaries of teachers, firemen, policemen, nurses and others whose real wages have been stretching the point."

IN A STATEMENT before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Baruch said: "Before the peace is won, we shall have to come to this mobilization. It will never be easier to do than now."

He outlined his recommendations as follows:

"1. Organize America for all-out mobilization, with a general ceiling over the entire economy to prevent further inflation and an all-embracing system of priorities to strengthen our defenses and minimize dislocations.

"2. The very least that must be done is to amend this priorities legislation to provide for

"7. Strengthen the United Nations by coordinating our efforts with it in common defense of peace.

"8. Speedier assistance in the rearming of those nations ready to resist aggression, along with the expansion of our own defense forces."

Baruch emphasized that no system of priorities can work effectively, or for long, without price control.

The danger of inflation, he said, is greater now than if we actually were in a full scale war. He warned that the recently increased Social Security payments and pensions for the aged would be nullified by failure to enact an effective price control law.

Probe Of State Aide Demanded By Congressman

WASHINGTON, July 26—Rep. Velde, (R) Ill., said today he will urge the House Un-American Activities Committee to investigate the case of Edward G. Posniak, State Department economist accused by Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., of being a Communist.

McCarthy meanwhile offered to testify before the Un-American Activities Committee in connection with his Communist-infiltration charges, which were branded false by majority members of a Senate investigating committee.

Sen. Morse, (R) Ore., stated earlier that "the burden of the proof is on McCarthy." Morse contended that "up to date, the charges have not been sustained."

McCarthy said he is turning over his "proof" to the committee that Edward G. Posniak, State Department economist, was considered a Communist by an undercover FBI agent, an FBI informant and others.

Furthermore, McCarthy said, he is turning up other "evidence" on persons named in his famous "81 cases" and others in the Senate Department which he will present on the Senate floor from time to time.

The Wisconsin senator said that one of these persons is now working for the State Department's Voice of America in Berlin.

Posniak, an international economist for the State Department who was formerly with the Justice Department and the Office of Strategic Services, immediately denied McCarthy's charges emphatically that he is or was a Communist.

Posniak declared:

"I have been opposed to Communism, of which I was an early victim, all my life, and I deeply resent the vicious and libelous charges that the senator has made against me under cover of congressional immunity."

APPROXIMATELY 36,000 men are attached to units operating 80 B-26 bombers and 320 two-engined troop transport planes. The other organized Air Reservists are attached to regular Airforce squadrons.

Estimates on the number of men that may be needed in Korea are being raised at the Pentagon because of reports of large-scale guerrilla activity behind the American lines.

Military maps of Korea now show six small and two large mountainous areas marked "GR" for guerrilla activity.

Some of these cut across rail and highway communication lines that supply American troops. All of them are behind American lines. One area alone is estimated to contain 1,500 well-armed guerrillas.

Military spokesmen said they have not raised their estimate of the size of the North Korean Communist army—placed at 100,000 to 150,000 men—but they added that 500,000 U. S. troops might be needed if the country must be patrolled and the guerrillas hunted down.

The spokesmen pointed out that overwhelming odds are required to contend with guerrillas when they have secret sources of supplies and mountain hideaways such as Korea abundantly provides.

NAVY SPOKESMEN said that the funds provided in the President's $10.5 billion request of Congress will enable the sea forces to add slightly more than 200,000 men.

This would include an additional 50,000 Marines, and approximately 150,000 regular Navy men. If the Airforce calls slightly less than 100,000, the Army could expand by 300,000 through the draft and volunteer enlistments.

The Wisconsin senator said that one of these persons is now working for the State Department's Voice of America in Berlin.

Upon signature of the governor and filing with the secretary of state, the regulations have the immediate and full force of law.

Under them, the state is divided into five districts which will supervise local organizations on the county and municipal levels.

The regulations were amended to set up the special health services to include doctors, nurses, first aid and hospitals at a conference between Kreber and State Health Director John Portfield held yesterday afternoon at Governor Lausche's request.

The regulations were discussed fully at a lengthy cabinet session yesterday.

Posniak declared:

"I have been opposed to Communism, of which I was an early victim, all my life, and I deeply resent the vicious and libelous charges that the senator has made against me under cover of congressional immunity."

Fresh U. S. Troops Halt Ko-Red Southern Drive

TOKYO, July 27—(Thursday)—Fresh American troops charged into action in Korea's southwest corner Wednesday with a surprise counter-attack that halted an eastward Communist drive within 70 miles west of vital Pusan.

In the Yongdong sector of the blazing central front the U. S. First Cavalry Division repulsed several assaults, inflicting heavy casualties on the Red tank-led attackers.

General Douglas MacArthur in a communiqué issued at 12:55 a. m. Thursday reported:

"Communist forces continued exerting heavy pressure along all fronts Wednesday night but indications were that the American and South Korean divisions were holding on stubbornly to the positions they held Tuesday."

Entering the southwest sector for the first time, the U. S. infantry forces were reported to have recaptured flaming Hadong, road center taken by the North Korean Fourth Division Tuesday.

The dramatic appearance of air-supported American ground forces along Western Korea's southern rim was recounted by International News Service War Correspondent John Rich in a dispatch from U. S. advance headquarters in Korea.

The dispatch, received in Tokyo at 10:15 o'clock Wednesday night, said that the American troops "went into the lines on the south coast of Korea Wednesday and halted the Red spearheads driving toward Pusan."

Rich said the report of Hadong's recapture by the newly-arrived U. S. troops had not yet been confirmed at the hour he filed his front dispatch. U. S. Fifth Airforce pilots, who participated in naval carrier airmen in giving cover to the American counter-assault, also reported the recovery of Hadong.

"Reports indicated that South Korean forces were moving up in the area and had retaken

70 air miles west of vital Pusan on the main highway skirting Korea's south coast.

The units, strength and origin of the American troops hurled into battle in Southwest Korea were not revealed. But it was disclosed that those forces were not part of any of the three U. S. Army divisions—the First Cavalry and the 25th and 24th Infantry—already identified as in action in the Korea war theater.

The new troops that reversed the Communist smash toward Pusan, which threatened to slice across the deep rear of the First Cavalry and 25th Infantry Divisions fighting in the central and northeast sectors, were stated to be part of MacArthur's Far East command.

80 jet fighters of the Fifth Airforce pummeled Hadong with rocket bombs as the American troops uncorked their surprise counterattack. Returning pilots said the U. S. ground forces drove the Reds out of the road junction the enemy had seized Tuesday.

Several hours before the arrival of the American troops in the Hadong area was disclosed, top officers at MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters told newsmen that the situation along Korea's southern rim on the coastal road

I felt the same old sickening anger. Anger at the power-lusting autocrats who seek to seize the world over the crumpled bodies of countless boys like this one.

Corporal Delwyn Milby of Pendleton, Ore., and Private Tom Williams of Howell, Mich., had drawn the somber assignment of driving the dead boy back to the graves registration office.

"He was just 19," said Corporal Milby. "He caught some steel right in the face. Anyway he got scragged instantly and didn't suffer."

There came a pause in the frantic and Private Williams' wheels the jeep into line. The combat boots jerked in spasms as the vehicle bounded on the rutty road.

There would be more of them, and the anger would become blunted. But the first one is the tough one. Even veteran soldiers will tell you that.

TWO CAUSES FOR DELAY

Milk Code Deadline Due
For Advance To Sept. 1

Deadline for putting Circleville milk code into effect has been set back.

Health Commissioner C. O. Leist said the code, which had been scheduled to go into effect next Tuesday, may not become active until Sept. 1.

He explained that the delay is caused partly by inability of the state health department to send an inspector to the Circleville district in time for the earlier deadline, and partly because some milk producers are still not ready with facilities to comply with the code.

Producers who are still unprepared when the code goes into effect will be unable to sell their milk in Circleville.

THIS WILL RESULT in distributors who handle their products being forced to buy Grade A milk from producers who have complied with regulations and passed inspection.

The milk bill was passed by Circleville city council last March. Inspections will be performed by Russell T. Blaney of Mingo street.

The milk mandate specifies

Reported In Try
For Labor Tieup

WASHINGTON, July 26—Top CIO and AFL leaders, spurred by initial success in unifying their political activities, meet again today to map further plans for a possible merger.

Eleven conferees in their initial meeting Monday agreed to set up a permanent committee to study the unification problem.

Hopes were high that the current discussions would result in establishment of a single "house of labor," but spokesmen for the rival organizations refused to predict the outcome.

They said they were neither pessimistic nor optimistic.

Officials reported that things started off with "a very friendly, cooperative and encouragingly constructive conversation of an explanatory nature."

A chairman and a secretary-treasurer of the new AFL-CIO Unity Committee will be named at a meeting to be scheduled later.

The agreement to merge political activities formally for the first time was hailed as a necessary first step toward a merger.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

The attack on the Republic of Korea by North Koreans at the instigation of Soviet Russia was an outrageous act of aggression against a friendly, independent nation, established and recognized by the United Nations. The whole country approved the decision to go to the aid of South Korea, but it has been shocked by the success of the North Korean attack.

We had been told by military people and many others that the South Korean army was fully prepared to resist such an attack by the Reds from the north.

How did it happen that the Korean army was unable to defend Korea and that we must now send American divisions into the battle?

In 1949 Congress appropriated more than $100 million altogether for military aid in the Far East, all of which could have been used for Korea, and $10,500,000 of which was actually set aside for that purpose. Assistant Secretary of State Webb testified specifically, both before the House and Senate, that the appropriation was sought for the purpose of helping Koreans to meet external aggression.

WE FIND, HOWEVER, that no part of this appropriation, except $200, was ever spent to give military assistance to the Republic of Korea. Apologists for the administration claim that we left behind $10 million worth of arms for the Korean army. I don't know what this material may have cost originally, but it was old stuff and it consisted mostly of side arms and light artillery and more or less obsolete bazookas.

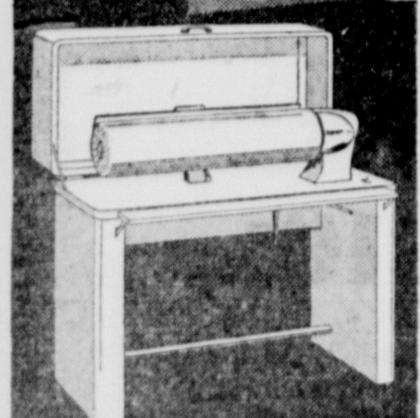

The important fact is that we gave the South Koreans no airplanes and no tanks, and no heavy artillery or modern bazookas to stop the Russian tanks. The best trained troops in the world could not have stood against an attack by a modern army under such circumstances.

Apparently there are two reasons why this important material was not supplied to Korea.

The appropriation was contained in the general military assistance program bill, which contained more than a billion dollars for Central Europe, ten times the amount allocated to the Far East. I voted against the bill because I considered that European project impractical and unwise, but it received first priority and little Korea was so far down the line in priorities that it was never reached at all.

I always approved military aid to specific countries like Greece and Turkey and Korea under threat of immediate Communist aggressions, but opposed the wholesale project of arming all of Europe.

IN THE SECOND PLACE, the administration for some reason changed the policy of giving assistance to Korea to defend itself against real aggression. The president said in his message on July 6: "In Korea the government forces were armed to prevent border raids and to prevent internal security." Of course, airplanes and tanks and heavy artillery are not required for this purpose, so that, even if the money had been spent, the Koreans would have been little better off.

I voted also for economic aid to Korea, very little of which ever reached them and, of course, all of which has now been wasted.

The truth is our Government had adopted a deliberate policy of not defending Korea or opposing Communist aggression. As late as May 5, Senator Connally, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said: "Whenever Russia takes a notion, she can overrun Korea."

He was asked: "But isn't Korea an essential part of the defense strategy?"

He replied: "It has been testified before us that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines make the chain of defense which is absolutely necessary."

We have now fortunately re-

Sabotage Seen In B-29 Blaze

LONDON, July 26—High ranking American officers refused to confirm or deny reports today that sabotage is suspected in a "mystery" fire which broke out in an American B-29 Superfort in England, injuring one crewman.

The London Daily Graphic reported that British military intelligence agents are investigating the fire which started while the giant bomber was standing on a runway at Burtonwood Air Base.

Security measures have been tightened at the air base, and many personnel reportedly are being screened. Patrols around the field have been doubled.

Very Thin Steel Sheet Perfected

MIDDLETOWN, July 26—Researchers for the Armco Steel Corp. today reported development of a special alloy steel so thin that ten layers equal the thickness of a human hair.

Armco said the steel was turned out at the request of the Navy and electronics manufacturers who asked for a super-thin steel with special magnetic properties.

A special mill was built to reduce the alloy to a twenty-five hundred thousands of an inch thickness.

Illiterates Can Vote New-Type Ballot, Attorney General Says

Pickaway County election officials Wednesday were studying an opinion of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy which cleared the way for illiterates to vote the new office-type ballot to be used for the first time in Ohio next November.

The new ballot lists candidates by the office they seek. Hence it will no longer be possible for those who cannot read to vote a straight party ticket merely by marking an "X" at the top of the party column.

Duffy ruled, however, that there is no constitutional or statutory requirement that a person be able to read or write in order to vote. Therefore, he held, such illiterates should be accorded the same help afforded those with physical infirmities: That is, they may be accompanied into the booth by a near relative or receive the assistance of the two election judges of the two different parties.

The state ruling will bring a change in practice in Pickaway County.

In the past here, persons have been allowed aid in general elections where the old-time party column ballot could be voted merely by marking an "X" in the circle.

However, local officials have refused the right of vote to persons who cannot read primary election ballots because, the officials argued, the illiterates would have to have all names read to them.

Legion Pledges Peace At Parley

CLEVELAND, July 26—Members of the American Legion and the city police department expect to work together to make certain no disorders mark this year's state Legion convention when it opens here Aug. 4.

Spencer K. Brittain, assistant secretary of the convention, said that 200 Legion policemen will work with the city's police force to maintain order. About 15,000 persons are expected to attend the convention.

Test ribbons were cut on a jig using razor blades as cutters. An order for four test coils was mailed in an aspirin box.

Baseball Fan Nabbed By FBI

CLEVELAND, July 26—The long search for a 36-year-old Sandusky bad-check artist is over today because the FBI knew about his fondness for baseball.

The ex-convict, wanted for passing 75 worthless checks in Cleveland, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Detroit, Toledo, Chicago and Boston, was arrested in Detroit last night as he entered a theatre to see a baseball film.

He was identified as Herbert D. Cheatham by Ray J. Abbaticcio.

chio Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI in Cleveland.

"We figured he couldn't resist a good game, in a stadium or on a screen," Abbaticcio said. "And we were right."

The population of Berlin is one million less than before the war, but the consumption of cigarettes is up two million a year.

The new ballot lists candidates by the office they seek. Hence it will no longer be possible for those who cannot read to vote a straight party ticket merely by marking an "X" at the top of the party column.

Duffy ruled, however, that there is no constitutional or statutory requirement that a person be able to read or write in order to vote. Therefore, he held, such illiterates should be accorded the same help afforded those with physical infirmities: That is, they may be accompanied into the booth by a near relative or receive the assistance of the two election judges of the two different parties.

The state ruling will bring a change in practice in Pickaway County.

In the past here, persons have been allowed aid in general elections where the old-time party column ballot could be voted merely by marking an "X" in the circle.

However, local officials have refused the right of vote to persons who cannot read primary election ballots because, the officials argued, the illiterates would have to have all names read to them.

Gang Fugitive Held In Ohio

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 26—A 24-year-old Ironton man is held in Huntington today as a fugitive from a Georgia road gang.

William McJunkins, appearing for trial in Huntington, told police he escaped last January from the gang. He said he was serving a five-to-seven year term at the DeKalb County, Ga., prison for a Decatur, Ga., cafe burglary.

Legion Pledges Peace At Parley

MIDDLETOWN, July 26—Researchers for the Armco Steel Corp. today reported development of a special alloy steel so thin that ten layers equal the thickness of a human hair.

Armco said the steel was turned out at the request of the Navy and electronics manufacturers who asked for a super-thin steel with special magnetic properties.

A special mill was built to reduce the alloy to a twenty-five hundred thousands of an inch thickness.

Test ribbons were cut on a jig using razor blades as cutters. An order for four test coils was mailed in an aspirin box.

He was asked: "But isn't Korea an essential part of the defense strategy?"

He replied: "It has been testified before us that Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines make the chain of defense which is absolutely necessary."

We have now fortunately reversed that policy. But let's not listen to Administration apologists who try to blame the military defeats on the South Koreans, or General MacArthur, or Republicans in Congress.

Death Takes Double New Births Here

Vital Statistics For County Cited

Deaths doubled the number of births in Pickaway County outside Circleville during the first half of 1950.

A report completed by the county health department shows a total of 82 deaths during the last six months while only 41 births were recorded.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, explained that the deaths exceeded births because of the relatively few home deliveries now being made.

He explained that most of the youngsters now being born in the county are being delivered in Circleville's Berger hospital.

Heart disease was the top killer in the county during the period. The report shows that 25 persons died of heart ailments.

SECOND TO heart disease in deaths was cancer, accounting for nine deaths, while cerebral hemorrhage and arteriosclerosis were blamed for six deaths each.

Auto accidents and old age accounted for only three deaths each during the period, according to the report.

Dr. Blackburn added that the county deaths also included the deaths in Orient State School, where pneumonia was the chief killer and heart disease second.

The 71-80 years old age range contained the largest number of deaths during the last half year with a total of 21.

Complete age range of the deaths for the period follows:

One-5 years, two deaths; 6-10 years, one death; 11-20 years, three deaths; 21-30 years, three deaths; 31-40 years, four deaths; 41-50 years, six deaths; 51-60 years, 10 deaths; 61-70 years, 11 deaths; 71-80 years, 21 deaths; 81-90 years, 17; 91-100 years, three deaths.

Age of one of the deceased persons in the county during the period was not determined.

Shaw Is 94; Writes New Play

LONDON, July 26 — George Bernard Shaw, who declared he would make no special observance of his 94th birthday today, told the London Daily Mail, however, that merely to mark the occasion he had turned out a new comedy within the last seven days.

The Irish playwright announced that his latest production is entitled "The Lady Who Would Not."

During the day he intends to have as his sole guest Producer Gabriel Pascal. The two are to discuss the scheduled Fall filming of Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion."

Mr. Seymour Marks, 1229 Morrison St., thinks his son Gregory is the finest little boy in St. Louis, Missouri, and he isn't a bit ashamed to admit it. He also says he used to be cross, irritable and nervous, but HADACOL put a stop to all that when he found he was suffering from a lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Mr. Marks was mighty proud to make the following statement: "Before I began taking HADACOL there was many a night that I lay awake. I just couldn't get any sleep. Food didn't agree with me and my stomach gave me all sorts of trouble. I took only two bottles of HADACOL before I was feeling much better. Now I am in the best of condition and have only HADACOL to thank. One of my cousins told me about HADACOL and I have told many more people about the fine results I have had from HADACOL."

You, Too, Will Be Amazed at the wonderful results HADACOL can bring you, as it has to thousands and thousands of other fine folks who suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron, which HADACOL contains. HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails.

Give HADACOL a chance today. Refuse substitutes. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk is involved... because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great with the first few bottles you take or your money will be refunded. Trial size, only $1.25; Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50. (C)1950 The LeBlanc Corporation

A JOB FOR AMERICANS

IF IT WAS not so before, it certainly is clear from the President's recommendations to Congress on the situation in Korea that there is a tough job to be done there, and that all Americans must help to do it. His requests are for substantial man power for the services, controls over industry and business, and a fund of ten billion dollars.

The money expended in a military campaign is the less important item of its cost. Far more significant are the lives lost and injuries suffered, the extravagant consumption of materials and energies, and the disruption of the nation's normal economy. Yet the money cost is what makes the first startling impression. Ten billion dollars is instantly recognizable as a big sum; it is an addition of about one fourth to the previous national budget and will presumably multiply by three the amount of the anticipated deficit for the current fiscal year. When this cash price tag on the Korean operation is appreciated, then perhaps it can be realized how great may be the accompanying price in real wealth and humanity.

We have a job to do, and it is not an easy, casual one. For most of us the chief part at the outset is to calm down, to realize that we are in for a hard pull and adjust our stride to it, to avoid doing foolish, panicky things like rushing to buy up tires or sugar or something else. The more quickly we buckle down to the job at hand, the sooner we should be able to end it.

RECORD BUBBLES

THERE ARE lots of people, old and young, who are interested in soap bubbles, and most of them must have been fascinated by the disclosure that Eiffel G. Plasterer, a retired physics and chemistry teacher of Huntington, Indiana, had kept a bubble intact for 200 days. There must also have been a thought that he was unfairly keeping something from the juvenile world when he announced that the solution with which he made this fabulous bubble would remain his own secret.

For some reason, Herget seems annoyed with me for failing to throw the blame on Shapley. He adds:

"I do not believe he was in any sense the leader in this campaign. I was a very vigorous participant myself, and I acted entirely alone. I know of several others who did likewise. For your information I enclose copies of some of my correspondence. I have no way of knowing all the

NEW YORK—There was a piece in the paper (as we say) the other day about a beautiful young movie hopeful from Venezuela who registered at the Waldorf-Astoria as an Indian princess and lived high on the hog for a while before she shook the city dust from her heels, went to Hollywood and there announced with a giggle that she wasn't a princess at all and that it all was a big joke.

Well, we are always getting that kind of amiable phony here in New York; there is always somebody trying to do it up big to impress somebody, whether it's a movie producer or a sugar daddy. But the incident reminded me of the time that Walter O'Keefe, the radio and onetime acting star, tried to impress somebody—only in reverse.

The story came to me from Will Yolen, a good press agent with the press agent's occupational disease, trying to fill inside straight. Will and I and Ted Mack, the maestro of the Original Amateur Hour of radio and television, were sitting around with a couple of other thugs in a coffee shop after I had made a brief but sensational appearance as a shill on the radio show (You are the original amateur, somebody told me bitterly) and Will remembered the time that Walter O'Keefe brought his father down to New York for the first time. This story is highly authentic. Will used to live with Walter, before the O'Keefe went to California six or eight years ago to settle down.

"It was about 10 years ago," Will said, "and Walter had just about hit the top in radio and show business. He had been a big hit singing When Yuba Plays the Tuba in that fine musical, Third Little Show, and he was starring on some cigarette program in radio.

"Walter had dough in the bank and a swank apartment on the upper East Side, and his brother Jack was writing a column for a news syndicate. His sister Mary had a good job in radio, and the three of them were right on top of the world, when they decided to bring pop down from Hartford, Conn. for his first visit to the big city.

"THEY DID IT UP RIGHT and sent him train fare and expenses—he was working for a Hartford insurance company, I believe—and

These Days

Some time ago, I wrote objecting to the boycotting of a publisher by scientists. They did not boycott the particular book, Velikovsky's "Worlds In Collision," but the textbooks published by MacMillan. The scientists engaged in a secondary boycott.

I stated in my article that I had not read the book. The point I sought to make was that dogmatic scientists, who are always shouting for academic freedom, engage in heresy-hunting like some of the theologians to whom they object as heresy-hunters.

I had not expected confirmation of my view from a scientist, particularly not from one who claims to be one of the chief instigators of the boycott, Prof. Paul Herget, director of the Cincinnati Observatory, professor at the University of Cincinnati. He has also sent me letters addressed to DeWitt Wallace, editor of Reader's Digest, and B. T. Harris of the MacMillan Company. All the letters are long.

The first paragraph of Professor Herget's letter to me reads:

"This is not a reflection on (columnists), but on frauds: You and Velikovsky. You are certainly a fraud, writing such a long column on something you have not read or investigated. He is certainly a fraud, writing a book which is so obviously prejudiced and untenable, and calling it scientific. I am one of those who participated in this campaign against MacMillan and I am willing to take time to explain what I know about it, even though I doubt that you have the sincerity of purpose to hear me to the end."

This shows the professor's breadth of mind, tolerance, urbanity and understanding of free institutions. It is a virtue of our society that differences of view and opinion and interpretation are tolerated. We assume that no one possesses a monopoly of knowledge or wisdom.

It is not necessary for me to read every book published. I do feel a compunction to protest against self-appointed censors, operating not in the open, but imposing a secret boycott with the object of suppressing ideas, concepts, interpretations and attitudes different from their own.

Herget may say that Velikovsky's book is no good; that controversy I am incapable of judging. But when he says to other textbook buyers that they should not purchase any MacMillan textbooks, no matter how suitable, then he and his associates perform an act of censorship and intellectual coercion which is intolerable in a free society.

Someone had told me that Professor Harlow Shapley had instigated this boycott, but I did not so write because I did not know the fact to be so and names rarely seem important to me when a fundamental principle is involved.

For some reason, Herget seems annoyed with me for failing to throw the blame on Shapley. He adds:

"I do not believe he was in any sense the leader in this campaign. I was a very vigorous participant myself, and I acted entirely alone. I know of several others who did likewise. For your information I enclose copies of some of my correspondence. I have no way of knowing all the

DIET AND HEALTHNervous Tension's Relation To Disorders of Digestion

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SO much has been written about the relation of nervous tension to the disorders of the digestive tract that many people have come to regard nervousness as the cause of these disturbances.

The very nervous, high-strung person may indeed develop ulcer of the stomach or ulcerative colitis but this does not mean that his nervousness has brought on his other trouble. As a matter of fact, in diseases of the stomach and bowel, several causes usually difficult one.

May Be Helpful
Physical therapy, such as heat, rest, and exercise may be helpful. The use of mild, quieting drugs and drugs which relax muscle spasms are helpful.

Most such patients, in addition to indigestion, are troubled with sleeplessness. For these conditions, such drugs as phenobarbital and atropine are of value.

In some cases, the services of a psychiatrist are necessary to help the patient overcome his nervous tension, but these cases are rare, particularly where adequate medical treatment is given.

FUNCTIONAL DISORDERS
Various so-called functional disorders of the bowel are often confused with such conditions as ulcerative colitis, which seems definitely to be due to infection, often with germs of the streptococcus type. A purely functional disturbance, such as that known as an irritable bowel, may often produce the alternating attacks of constipation and diarrhea, which are characteristic of true bowel inflammation.

In all cases it is necessary for the doctor to know one condition from the other so that the proper treatment may be employed. Once the diagnosis is made, the patient's nervous system can be studied and the required type of management instituted.

A disturbance of the pituitary gland, located at the base of the brain, or the adrenal gland, located above the kidneys, may be responsible.

Bennett Cerf'sTry, Stop Me

One of the first psychiatry stories was told by the late Dr. A. A. Brill, translator of the works of Freud. A woman sought a consultation with him to report that she was ill continually, craved mink coats, Winters in Palm Beach, strings of genuine pearls, couldn't rouse herself before noon, drank excessively, was separated from her husband, and was in love with another married man.

When she had left his office, Dr. Brill wrote his analysis across her card: "Normal, wealthy woman."

Ben Hecht and Charlie MacArthur were very flattered some years ago when the late Alexander Woolcott invited them as guests on his fabulously success-

CHAPTER THIRTY
CARRADINE said, "We stopped at Dodge. We'd seen no town since we'd left Texas, so we planned to rest for a day. Jim Ives had got there the night before. I don't suppose you remember Dodge City."

Remember...? There was the campfire talk again, the tall tales of Texas men, and so the old names rang in Ives' mind—Front Street and Boot Hill and Hell's Half Acre and the Lone Star dance hall. Texas men crowding their horses into the plaza where the glassed-in coal-oil lamps spread their brilliance. Barrels of water placed along the street in case of fire... barber shops... soft-spoken marshals... a preacher's voice raised in a saloon, raised in the old hymns.

"I'm not sure," Ives said. "We gave our men part of their pay on the flats of the Arkansas and drew straws again, this time to see who'd stay with the herd while the others visited Dodge. Some men wanted whiskey and some wanted cards and some wanted women. But Dave had a different desire. He was a man with a wife and a child waiting for him in Montana. All he wanted was to know how it felt to sleep in a bed, after those nights on the trail. He rode into Dodge to get a hotel room. He got one. He never came out of it alive."

Ives said slowly, "And Tana knew... and now he understood the things she'd left wordless last night, and now he knew that she was lost to him forever."

"Your father and hers," Carradine said.

Ives sat down. He put his elbow upon his knee and his face in his hands. He sat like this for a long time, and then he said, "I'll be going now. I owe you more than I owe any man. I'll never trouble you again."

Carradine said, "There's still that matter of the torn hundred dollar bill."

Ives said, "Who sent it to you?" Carradine made a gesture with his hands. "How should I know? The nesters, perhaps. They probably supposed you came home to help me. It's an old device, dividing the enemy."

Ives shook his head. "Elisha Lund isn't a subtle man. It was someone else." He paused, the name came to him without his thinking. "Stoll?"

"Perhaps Stoll hates me," Carradine said. "But he has no reason to hate you. Or was Brule waiting for me? He could have fired at you in the anger of the moment."

Ives said, "I don't know."

Carradine looked at Ives; Carradine was his old imperious self, and he said, "I've told you the truth about what happened on the trail so that your judgment of me can be honest. Yes, I despise the name of Ives. But I do my own growing."

Ives said, "Then we've finished with our talk. I came for the key to Hammer's house. There's no reason for you to hold Benedict."

Carradine said, "Perhaps I might play at dividing the enemy. I've got Benedict; I could keep him."

Benedict nodded. "You'll get that chance."

Tana's at Elisha Lund's," Ives said. "She offered to be hostage until Benedict was returned."

Carradine said, "Tana" and her scar flamed. "Are they using women as weapons, sir?"

"It was Tana's choice," Ives said.

He extended his hand. "The key?"

Carradine stood up, his night-gown clapping about his ankles. He walked from the room and Ives heard a bureau drawer creak open.

The colonel returned, the key in his hand; he gave the key to Ives. The colonel said, "Tell Harry I said to let him go." The colonel mustered fierceness, but it was hollow.

"He damned sure that Tana gets back here safely!"

Ives said, "I will," and started for the door. He took a last glance back; Carradine was standing in the center of the room, his hands before him and his face empty, like a man stricken blind.

They saw the sombra in the first daylight, the two of them, and here they rested their saddles after the long ride from Hammer, and Rod Benedict angled a leg around his saddlehorn and dashed out the makings. He built a smoke and offered Durham and papers to Ives, but Ives shook his head. He favored a pipe. Benedict got the tobacco burning and looked less tense than he had. He said, "I never really felt safe, not even when we passed through the gata. The colonel isn't going to be happy about this." He looked at Ives. "You're a gum-looking specimen this fine morning, Doc."

Ives said, "We'd better move on."

Benedict frowned; the town took the boyishness out of him and gave him a grave colonel.

"Must be you buckled the colonel to get that bunkhouse unlocked," he said. "That couldn't have been easy. I'm beholden to you."

Ives looked toward the river; the first light was like smoke upon the waters. Ives' face was bleak with his thinking; his face was dead. He had been rootless for a long, long time, but not like this, not with the last tie cut. He said, "You can do something for me, Rod, when you get the chance. You can lay your hands on Brule. I want to talk to that gentleman."

Benedict nodded. "You'll get that chance."

Some of the zest of his accomplishment is removed by the further knowledge that his long-lived bubble had to be shielded carefully from contact with the air. That would never do for bubble-blowing youngsters. Besides, think what a valuable element of the preparation of the young for the conditions of the cold world would be lost if their bubbles did not burst.

Mary went down to Grand Central Terminal to meet the train.

"It was a big day for pop. He had been getting letters and reading the papers and he knew just how the two O'Keefe boys were knocking them dead in the big town, and he was going to see how they did it.

"Mary met him. They got into a taxi on 42nd street and when they settled back, she put this long face on and said 'Now, father, don't forget—the boys are doing fine, but they've got a lot of expenses. You know, they've got a position to maintain and it takes a lot of money to do it.'

"They pay writers and Walter has this press agent that costs a lot of money and the rent on that East Side apartment is tremendous. What I am trying to tell you, father, is that they have to take on a little work—a little sideline, as it were—to keep their heads above water."

"Why, I understand," Mr. O'Keefe told his daughter, amiably, "and I think they're doing perfectly right. You can't live like a peanut if you're going to be a big man in show business, and—, but just at that moment the cab slowed down, around 44th street and Madison, outside the Hotel Biltmore, and Mr. O'Keefe stopped talking. He looked out the window, and shook his head once or twice, as if he had taken a couple of Ray Robinson's right crosses to the jaw."

"Because there at the corner, pushing their little white cart along and dragging brooms, were Walter and Jack—dressed to the teeth in Department of Sanitation uniforms. They made the most professional street cleaners you ever saw, and all in all, it is probably the best piece of acting that Walter did in a long and honorable career. You should have seen them wield those brooms."

"THEY FINALLY LOOKED UP from their mancuring of Madison Avenue, and their faces lighted up. 'Hey, pop!' Walter yelled happily, and then he and Jack walked over to the cab and pulled open the door and shook hands with the old man.

"The old man still was too speechless to say anything, but the first thing he did, even before he could talk, was to reach for his wallet. He wanted to give them back the money they had advanced for train fare, figuring they needed it more than he did."

Well, Jack looked at Walter and said, "Ah, I guess we can knock off for an hour or so and see that pop gets safely home, don't you, Walter?" Walter agreed and they piled into the cab and all the way back to the swanky apartment, they kept up the routine.

"What's the matter with cleaning the streets, pop?" they demanded. "It's an honorable living, isn't it?" "Sure, sure," Mr. O'Keefe said weakly. "It's just that, well, what I mean is—, only he couldn't say what he meant."

"At last they let the whole dodge out of the bag, and the old man sighed with relief and they all had a big laugh out of it. But every time I see a white wing shoving a broom along, these days, I think of the time Walter tried to impress his old man in reverse. It was a practical joke in the grand tradition and, alas, they don't do enough of it any more."

Nervous Tension's Relation To Disorders of Digestion

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SO much has been written about the relation of nervous tension to the disorders of the digestive tract that many people have come to regard nervousness as the cause of these disturbances.

The very nervous, high-strung person may indeed develop ulcer of the stomach or ulcerative colitis but this does not mean that his nervousness has brought on his other trouble. As a matter of fact, in diseases of the stomach and bowel, several causes usually act together.

There can be no doubt, however, that nervous disturbances influence the course of such ailments, once they have developed.

Functional Disorders

Various so-called functional disorders of the bowel are often confused with such conditions as ulcerative colitis, which seems definitely to be due to infection, often with germs of the streptococcus type. A purely functional disturbance, such as that known as an irritable bowel, may often produce the alternating attacks of constipation and diarrhea, which are characteristic of true bowel inflammation.

In all cases it is necessary for the doctor to know one condition from the other so that the proper treatment may be employed. Once the diagnosis is made, the patient's nervous system can be studied and the required type of management instituted.

A disturbance of the pituitary gland, located at the base of the brain, or the adrenal gland, located above the kidneys, may be responsible.

Most such patients, in addition to indigestion, are troubled with sleeplessness. For these conditions, such drugs as phenobarbital and atropine are of value.

In some cases, the services of a psychiatrist are necessary to help the patient overcome his nervous tension, but these cases are rare, particularly where adequate medical treatment is given.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A reader: What would cause an excessive growth of hair on a young woman's face at the age of twenty-seven?

Answer: The cause of superfluous hair is not known. It is probably due to some glandular disorder. However, just what glands have been involved cannot be determined.

A disturbance of the pituitary gland, located at the base of the brain, or the adrenal gland, located above the kidneys, may be responsible.

Carradine said, "Tana!" and his scar flamed. "Are they using women as weapons, sir?"

"It was Tana's choice," Ives said. He extended his hand. "The key?"

Carradine stood up, his nightgown flapping about his ankles. He walked from the room and Ives heard a bureau drawer creak open. The colonel returned, the key in his hand; he gave the key to Ives.

Ives said slowly, "And Tana knew . . . and now she understood the things she'd left wordless last night, and now she knew that she was lost to him forever."

"Your father and hers," Carradine said. Ives sat down. He put his elbow upon his knee and his face in his hands. He sat like this for a long time, and then he said, "I'll be going now. I owe you more than I owe any man. I'll never trouble you again."

Carradine said, "There's still that matter of the torn hundred dollar bill."

Ives said, "Who sent it to you?" Carradine made a gesture with his hands. "How should I know?"

"No," Carradine said. "Jim Ives." In the night the lamp's flame seemed to sob in its chimney, and the old scar stood out upon Carradine's forehead, and his voice was brittle with pain. But we pieced it out after making inquiries. Ives came looking for Dave, and of course he must have sided with Dave."

Ives said, "And that's how I came to Hammer?"

Vegetable, Fruit, Grain Exhibits To Be Set Up In Coliseum Next Week

Placings Due Early Monday

Vegetable, fruit and grain displays, ever popular exhibits with fairgoers, will be held again this year in the big fair-ground coliseum during Pickaway Fair Week.

The Rev. Sam C. Elsea will be chairman of the vegetable exhibit again this year. Ralph Bolender will be in charge of the grain display and Mrs. Harry Wright will be responsible for fruit.

Elsea predicts a vegetable exhibit of unusual size and excellence because of the fine growing season. As for rules, Elsea stressed the fact that the entry should be correctly-named as to variety. There will be 62 classes.

Vegetable exhibits will be received from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. Monday. Judging will start Tuesday morning. Elsea and his committee protect all entries but will not be responsible for their loss.

The potato exhibit alone will have seven classes with $2 first prizes, $1 second prizes and 50 cent third prizes. An award of $5 will be given the exhibitor who displays the five best varieties of potatoes. Second prize in this class will be $3 and third prize $2. There will be a class for six largest potatoes with two prizes of $1 and 50 cents.

There will be two classes for sweet potatoes, one for yams. There will be five classes for beans including green string, wax string, pole lima, bunch lima and dried.

Among other vegetables in the 62 classes are turnips, onions, radishes, beets, carrots, cucumbers, cabbage, celery, parsnips, salsify, egg plant, squash, pumpkins, watermelons, corn and tomatoes.

Mrs. Harry Wright, chairman of fruit division, says that exhibits will be received from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. Monday. The displays will be on the bleachers this year where they may be better exhibited and better protected. Exhibits may not be removed until 10 p. m. Friday.

An exhibit consists of a plate of five unless otherwise stated. Premiums offered are $1 for first prize, 50 cents for second prize and a ribbon for third place.

In the apple class, 17 varieties are listed. Other varieties may also be entered.

A prize of $2 will be awarded for the five largest apples of any variety. Other prizes in this

Auxiliary Buys Hospital Beds

At the American Legion auxiliary meeting Monday night in American Legion Home, the president, Mrs. H. D. Stansbury, announced two hospital beds had been purchased for the "Sick Room Loan Closet." Proceeds of a countywide magazine campaign went towards the equipment which is the beginning of the loan closet.

Mrs. Stansbury told auxiliary members that she had at least two calls a week for hospital beds.

A talk by Mrs. Blanche Motschman on the "Current Crisis" was the feature of the program. Mrs. Motschman urged auxiliary members to back the Universal Military Training law.

Mrs. Jack Heeter served refreshments to the group.

class will be $1 for second, 50 cents for third. There will also be basket displays.

Peaches, pears, grapes, plums and quinces are the other fruits that have been included in the exhibit.

Ralph D. Bolender is chairman in charge of grain. Last year's grain will be acceptable for display. According to Bolender, wheat is the only 1950 grain which will be ready for exhibit.

Exhibitors may bring entries from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday. Entries must be left in place until 10 p. m. Friday.

Premiums will be $2 first place, $1 second place and a ribbon for third place in the field corn division. In the hybrid corn division, awards will be $1 and 50 cents. Sweepstakes winner for the ten best ears of corn will receive an engraved silver cup.

Other grains included in the exhibit will be popcorn, wheat, oats, soybeans, red clover and timothy seed.

GOP Women Hear Speaker

Archer Reilly, assistant to State Treasurer Don Ebright, was guest speaker when about 100 members and guests of Pickaway County Women's Republican Club met in the country home of Mrs. W. J. Whitehead and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinkle for a covered dish supper Monday evening.

The group met in the formal garden, beautiful with phlox, marigolds, zinnias, hemerocallis, snapdragons, roses, petunias and pansies, where the buffet supper was served from a long table. Guests were seated at smaller tables centered with figurines painted by Mrs. Hinkle.

Following the business session with Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, presi-

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Harding College

Recently, this column mentioned that in my travels around the country there had been observed the beginning of "an awakening of significant proportions" at the grass roots. People in the cities and towns visited were telling me they'd begun to realize the fuller import of things happening in our nation and were anxious to do something to help safeguard the American way of life.

Since writing the column, many further signs of the awakening have been observed. There has been evidence too that a great many people have begun actually to do something to safeguard liberty against internal encroachment.

I've just received in my mail a most inspiring piece of evidence. It was sent to me by an Ohio friend. It is a full page advertisement published in the July 3 issue of the Advertiser Tribune, of Tiffin, Ohio, an industrial city of 18,000.

This advertisement reminded me in many ways, of the historic document I viewed one Winter's day two and a half years ago in a coach of the Freedom Train. It was the original Declaration of Independence. Reading that great declaration of freedom and seeing the scrawled signatures of men like John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson filled me with mixed emotion—tingling pride and reverent gratitude. Now I have experienced a kindred sensation while reading this advertisement that came in the mail.

IT CARRIES A great proclamation and affixed to it are the penned signatures of 410 people declaring themselves gloriously free.

It must be passed along. Here it is:

"As Free Men We Proclaim—Our Belief in the divinity of God, the dignity of man and the destiny of our country.

"Our Belief that man shall live by the sweat of his brow.

"Our Belief in a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

"Our Belief that a man should live within his income and pay his honest debts, and that our government should operate on the same sensible basis.

"Our Belief that under the American Way of Life we already have a higher standard of living than any other governmental system has ever offered—let alone delivered.

"Our Belief that as free men, proud of our achievements and jealous of our rights, there is no place in our midst for communists, fellow travelers and other cranks who by wild accusations and empty promises would lead us down the trail to political and economic slavery.

"Our Belief that it is our duty as free men to speak out in defense of our American way of Life and to go on record to that end... May God be with us."

The signatures penned to this document were not those of members of the Sons of the American Revolution. Nor was it a politically inspired advertisement.

Church-State Issue Labeled Of Top Import

CLEVELAND, July 26—Dr. Culbert Rutenber of Philadelphia told delegates to the World Baptist Congress here today that the issue of capitalism versus socialism is of secondary importance.

The totalitarians state is the most urgent problem of our civilization today," Dr. Rutenber said. "The blasphemy of the omniscient state is that it seeks to annihilate the individual conscience, thereby robbing a man of his humanity and debasing him into a repeater of slogans."

Dr. Rutenber is professor of philosophy and religion at Eastern Theological Seminary, Philadelphia.

Other speakers today included Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., who discussed how Christianity has thrown light on human relationships for 19 centuries.

A manifesto on religious liberty was presented to the seventh session of the congress by the 19-members commission on religious liberty, headed by Dr. Stanley Stuber of New York.

The manifesto, approved by the executive committee of the Baptist World Alliance, said religious liberty is seriously threatened "in Communist countries and others where the Roman Catholic church is dominant."

It called on Baptists throughout the world to fight with increased vigor for the principle of separation of church and state.

Justice J. W. Estey of the supreme court of Canada told delegates to the congress last night that the Christian church must aggressively support freedom for all men as set forth in the charter of the United Nations.

The jurist said the Communist attack on South Korea stressed the need for the church to take added responsibility in preserving the conceptions embodied in the charter.

The first women's rights convention was held in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Harding College

Recently, this column mentioned that in my travels around the country there had been observed the beginning of "an awakening of significant proportions" at the grass roots. People in the cities and towns visited were telling me they'd begun to realize the fuller import of things happening in our nation and were anxious to do something to help safeguard the American way of life.

Since writing the column, many further signs of the awakening have been observed. There has been evidence that a great many people have begun actually to do something to safeguard liberty against internal encroachment.

I've just received in my mail a most inspiring piece of evidence. It was sent to me by an Ohio friend. It is a full page advertisement published in the July 3 issue of the Advertiser Tribune, of Tiffin, Ohio, an industrial city of 18,000.

This advertisement reminded me in many ways, of the historic document I viewed one Winter's day two and a half years ago in a coach of the Freedom Train. It was the original Declaration of Independence. Reading that great declaration of freedom and seeing the scrawled signatures of men like John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson filled me with mixed emotion—tingling pride and reverent gratitude. Now I have experienced a kindred sensation while reading this advertisement that came in the mail.

IT CARRIES A great proclamation and affixed to it are the penned signatures of 410 people declaring themselves gloriously free.

It must be passed along. Here it is:

"As Free Men We Proclaim—
"Our Belief in the divinity of God, the dignity of man and the destiny of our country."

"Our Belief that man shall live by the sweat of his brow."

"Our Belief in a fair day's work for a fair day's pay."

"Our Belief that a man should live within his income and pay his honest debts, and that our government should operate on the same sensible basis."

"Our Belief that under the American Way of Life we already have a higher standard of living than any other governmental system has ever offered—let alone delivered.

"Our Belief that as free men, proud of our achievements and jealous of our rights, there is no place in our midst for communists, fellow travelers and other cranks who by wild accusations and empty promises would lead us down the trail to political and economic slavery."

"Our Belief that it is our duty as free men to speak out in defense of our American way of Life and to go on record to that end. . . . May God be with us."

The signatures penned to this document were not those of members of the Sons of the American Revolution. Nor was it a politically inspired advertisement.

ALL THE PEOPLE who signed it are industrial workers—men and women employees of an industrial hearth manufacturing company, Basic Refractories, Inc., with plants at Maple Grove and Bettsville, Ohio. I'm informed that one of the workers got the idea for the advertisement, discussed it with some of his fellows and found spontaneous response. The workers themselves wrote the proclamation and paid for the ad. The company had no part whatsoever in the project.

What a grand thing it is! It is passed along here as an inspiring example for people in every community in America who want to do something for their country. If enough people would thus publicly pledge themselves to actively support such a sound American credo no harmful movement or trend arising within our nation could ever badly injure or menace our freedom. These industrial workers in Ohio have given us a splendid 1950 Declaration of Independence.

Hell's canyon, on the Snake river between Oregon and Idaho, is the deepest chasm on the North American continent. It averages 5,550 feet in depth.

India launched her first ocean-going vessel in 1948.

FIVE INDIAN TRAILS: GARAGE-CAFE

Old Monument Gives Name To Newest County Business

A discarded stone monument of Ohio historic background has provided the name for Pickaway County's newest and most unique business.

The new establishment is a 24-hour garage and restaurant located at the north edge of Circleville which has been named "5 Trails."

Myrtle Root, owner of the new establishment, said the stone monument was found at the rear of the lot last March when she took over the business.

The stone marker originally was set out to mark the place where five Indian trails crossed in Pickaway County in early Ohio history.

"A lot of people passing by have stopped in just to look at the marker," Myrtle Root said.

"We have painted five Indian faces on the stone to show that this is where the trails crossed."

hired to take care of the 24-hour policy of the business.

Employees of the establishment are Mrs. Susan Schwalbaugh, Mrs. Mabel Shonkwieler, Mrs. Elizabeth Newton, Mrs. Elsie Pritchard, Mrs. Frank Keaton, Donnie Caudill, Delores Dearth, Margaret Hunt, E. O. Cardwell, Cecil Schwalbaugh, Voss Crago, Elmer Caldwell, Orlando Brown, James Boltenhouse, Henry Caudill, Frank Keaton and Herbert Hutchison.

In addition to handling gasoline, oil and garage supplies, along with the restaurant, a used car lot has been set up as part of the business.

In keeping with the historical theme of the location, Myrtle Root has dubbed the new 5 Trails wrecker "Big Chief," while a pickup truck used in the business is known as "Trail Chief."

"WE DON'T PLAN anything fancy here," Myrtle Root said. "Just good food and good service around the clock."

The new owner said that among her first customers was a family moving to Williamston, Mich., complete with household goods, 40 chickens, four ducks, two milk goats and a beehive.

Grand opening for the new truck stop will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday with one of the most intensive publicity campaigns ever planned here.

The Circleville Herald carries three full pages of advertisements of congratulations and compliments for the new business Wednesday to help open the campaign.

A truck carrying 5 Trails banners and signs will cover the city during the campaign, while a searchlight and clown will be employed to attract attention at the station itself.

In addition, a house-to-house canvass is planned for the city, with each homemaker receiving a gift from 5 Trails.

modity Credit Corporation surplus foods to eligible recipients in the U. S. totaled about 160 million pounds and to private welfare organizations for foreign relief purposes about 25 million pounds.

This program was set up under the Agricultural Act of 1949 to prevent waste through deterioration or spoilage of commodities acquired by CCC in price-support operations.

Made available free at point of storage by the CCC, the surplus stocks are distributed this way by priority:

School-lunch programs; Indian Affairs Bureau; federal, state and local public welfare organizations for assistance of needy persons; private groups for assistance of the needy both within and outside the U. S.

Transportation costs may be paid by the corporation on 1949-crop potatoes under certain conditions.

So far the CCC has been able to fill all requests from eligible agencies. Domestic distribution included 4,860,625 pounds of non-fat dried milk solids; 2,118,023 pounds of dried eggs; 139,294,329 pounds of potatoes; 8,122,098 pounds of butter and 4,914,443

TRAFFIC SLAUGHTER IS NEEDLESS

Patrol's Concern Grows
Over Increase In Accidents

The two State Highway Patrolmen assigned to Pickaway County said Wednesday that their boss is expressing growing concern over the increase in traffic accidents on Ohio's highways.

Patrolmen Clyde Wells and Charles Watters reported that

3 Inventories
Of Estates Are Noted In Court

Inventories of three estates have been filed in Pickaway County common please court.

The Carrie B. Rader estate has been appraised at $49,803.88, which $34,270.32 is in real estate, $830 in securities, $7,191.89 in money and $7,511.67 in personal goods.

A total of $48,115 was listed for the Walter Spradlin estate. Of the total $19,040 is in real estate, $5,911.50 in credits and $22,263.50 in personal goods.

A determination of inheritance tax on the Spradlin estate also was filed, revealing that Nola Spradlin, widow, must pay $400.61 tax on a succession of $35,030.50.

The Ethel B. Lutz estate has been appraised at $1,725, all in securities.

Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the Patrol, has issued a plea to "hold the line" to prevent auto smashups.

Colonel Mingle was particularly concerned over the fact that the Highway Patrol records to date this year show an increase of 15 percent in the number of traffic accidents on the highways together with an increase of 20 percent in the number of fatal accidents in the rural areas.

Mingle pointed out that the recent swift increases in the state and nation's traffic volumes require that all highway and street users must assume a greater responsibility as a driver or pedestrian.

MEANWHILE, traffic control planning is receiving more attention from officials at national, state and local levels, he said.

In Ohio more than 2½ millions of automobiles, trucks, trailers, motorcycles, buses and house trailers are licensed to operate and the total is mounting each day. Nearly 3½ million Ohioans are licensed to drive motor vehicles. The total mileage driven in Ohio each year amounts to 24 billion miles.

"Our Patrol officers are fighting a major battle each day in attempting to prevent the needless traffic slaughter on our highways," Colonel Mingle said.

"They will continue their re-

Finland Signs
Grain-Buying
Pact With Reds

WASHINGTON, July 26 — The Agriculture Department said today that Finland has agreed to buy 68,000 metric tons of Russian grain and feedstuffs over the five-year period starting next Jan. 1.

The agreement is considered unusual because Finland has in the past signed contracts with Russia only on a one-year basis. Agriculture said:

"With our limited manpower, it is not in any way possible to constantly patrol every mile of the 18,000 miles of state highways in the state. However, the people can help by informing the Patrol of those traffic violations which create a dangerous situation such as the drunken driver or the reckless driver. We are as close to you as the nearest telephone, he said, and our Patrol posts will gladly accept calls reporting highway emergencies. The Patrol will cooperate with you and earnestly solicit your cooperation and help in reducing highway accidents."

By closing a five-year agreement, the department said the two governments "hope to expand their economic relation to their mutual benefit and create a foundation for a long-term exchange of commodities."

During the five years, Finland will buy 455,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of rye, 25,000 tons of corn and 100,000 tons of oil cakes.

Under the agreement Finland is also obliged to buy up to $25 million worth of goods from third countries to be specified and agreed upon at a later date between Russia and Finland.

Prices paid to Russia for the commodities are to be fixed from time to time in the contracts between Finnish importers and Soviet exporters on the basis of "prevailing world market prices."

Agriculture said:

"It will be noted that the total Finnish import quota for Soviet grain is considerably lower in the last year of the five-year period than during the first two or three years. This reflects Finland's program for increasing self-sufficiency in grains."

Phone Company
Said 'Stuffy'

WASHINGTON, July 26—"Dry Cleaner Woods" is suing the telephone company for $40,000 because, he says, the firm has refused for three years to list him properly in its directory.

Woods—known to a few friends as Thomas H. Woods—insists that he's been losing business to competitors because the company is "stuffy" about listing him under the only name known to his patrons—"Dry Cleaner Woods."

Student Cited For Thefts

CLEVELAND, July 26—Police were holding a 21-year-old student today as a suspect in a series of thefts at Western Reserve university.

Detective George W. Clark said the youth, a former Adelbert college student now enrolled at Cleveland college, admitted stealing $650 from a fraternity house last month.

However, the student denied connection with other burglaries, including the theft of $4,200 from the cashier's office of the WRU administration building in March.

TERMITES

Damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no property not infested they charge for the inspection, and if will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

LAST FLAG: IN 1915

Keep An Eye On Phillies
They May Do It Again

NEW YORK, July 26—You really have to test your memory to remember when the Phillies won their last and only National League pennant.

It was 35 years ago, in 1915, but don't go away. You may be in on Philadelphia's second flag right here in 1950.

The New York Giants won their sixth straight when they scored five in the eighth and one in the ninth to edge the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 6. A muffed fly by Outfielder Bob Usher let the winning run score.

The American League-leading Detroit Tigers continued on their rocky road. The Boston Red Sox rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to take a 7 to 6 decision from the Bengals.

VERN STEPHENS poked his 24th homer with one on in the first and George Kell hit one in the fifth for Detroit with two on.

Detroit's lead remained at a game and a half as the second place Yankees bowed, 4 to 3 to the lowly St. Louis Browns, but both Cleveland and Boston gained on the leaders.

Stubby Overmire lost his shut-out over the Yankees when Johnny Mize hit a two-run homer in the ninth as the New Yorkers rallied for three runs.

Luke Easter cracked out two homers to raise his total to nineteen as the Indians turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 6, for Bob Feller's tenth win.

Joe Gordon also homered for the Tribe as did Sam Chapman and Joe Tipton for Philadelphia.

Feller needed the assistance of Bob Lemon in the ninth when the A's scored twice and had the tying run on base.

In another night game the Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 4.

Sandy Hill Hurls One-Run Game In Tournament

Sandy Hill allowed Circleville Oil softball team only two hits Tuesday as he hurled his Kingston All-Stars team into an 11-1 victory in the district softball tournament in Chillicothe.

Circleville Oilers allowed the All-Stars to tally nine runs in the first frame of the tourney opener.

Sandy's All-Stars collected singles in each the fourth and fifth innings to wind up the contest while permitting the Oilers to tally a single in the second for the 11-1 final.

According to tournament rules, the game was stopped after the fifth inning because of the 10-run margin posted by Kingston.

OILER SOFTBALLERS were lowered into the loser bracket of the double elimination tourney in Tuesday's joust, while the All-Star team is to meet Kingston Grapettes at 9 p. m. Wednesday for its second round match.

Top Hat softball team of Circleville, leading contender for the tourney title, is slated to make its first appearance in the contest at 8 p. m. Thursday against Dairy Queen.

Line score of Tuesday's Circleville Oil loss follows:

Oilers 0 0 0 1 2 2
All-Stars 9 0 1 1 1 9 1

Victory Grattan Grabs Feature

CHICAGO, July 26—Victory Grattan took both divisions of the $1,500 divided pacing feature last night and Lee Dewey won the $1,000 mile trot before 5,091 fans at Chicago's Sportsman's Park.

Victory Grattan covered the mile first division in 2:05 2-5. Second was Peaceful Guy while Bay Prince was third.

Victory Grattan ran the same distance a second slower in the second division but beat out Court Law ul. Bay Prince was third again.

In Lee Dewey's trotting victory, Harry A. Hanover finished second and Gene Long third.

Buck Football Tickets Ready

COLUMBUS, July 26—Season and individual tickets to Ohio State University's home football games next Fall go on sale to the general public Aug. 7.

The university announced today that application forms for placing orders for the tickets now are available at the ticket office in Ohio Stadium, Ohio State opens its season Sept. 30 against Southern Methodist.

GAMES TUESDAY

LAST FLAG: IN 1915

Keep An Eye On Phillies
They May Do It Again

NEW YORK, July 26—You may really have to test your memory to remember when the Phillies won their last and only National League pennant.

It was 35 years ago, in 1915, but don't go away. You may be in on Philadelphia's second flag right here in 1950.

None of the present-day wonders of the fightin' Phils can say, "I was there," the last time. But the young gentlemen from the Quaker City are making Manager Eddie Sawyer's pre-season first division goal the biggest underestimate since some paleface bought Manhattan island for twenty-four bucks from an unknown Injun.

Philadelphia regained first place last night when Bubba Church and Robin Roberts, aged 24 and 23, respectively, tossed 7 to 0 and 1 to 0 shutouts to the Chicago Cubs in a twin-night doubleheader.

The American League-leading Detroit Tigers continued on their rocky road. The Boston Red Sox had three runs in the eighth inning to take a 7 to 6 decision from the Bengals.

VERN STEPHENS poked his 24th Homer with one on in the first and George Kell hit one in the fifth for Detroit with two on.

Detroit's lead remained at a game and a half as the second place Yankees bowed, 4 to 3 to the lowly St. Louis Browns, but both Cleveland and Boston gained on the leaders.

Stubby Overmire lost his shutout over the Yankees when Johnny Mize hit a two-run homer in the ninth as the New Yorkers rallied for three runs.

Luke Easter cracked out two homers to raise his total to nine as the Indians turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 6, for Bob Feller's tenth win.

Joe Gordon also homered for the Tribe as did Sam Chapman and Joe Tipton for Philadelphia.

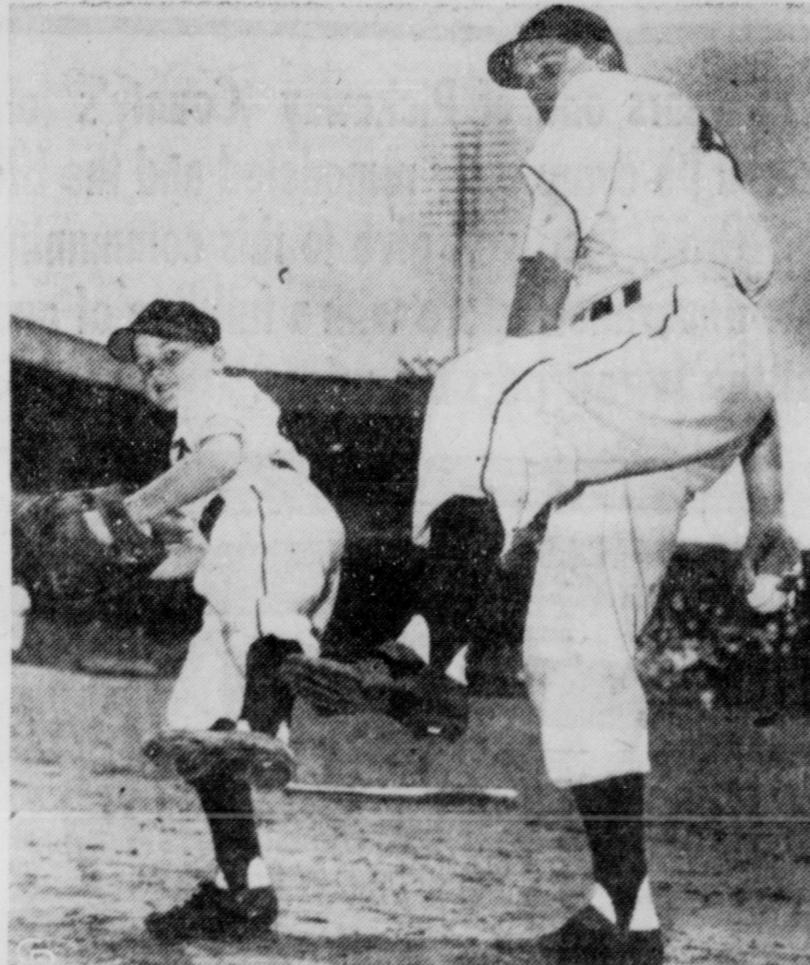

Feller needed the assistance of Bob Lemon in the ninth when the A's scored twice and had the tying run on base.

In another night game the Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 4.

The double win offset St. Louis' grand awakening at Ebbets Field. The Cardinals fell a half-game behind despite the fact that they won their first game in Brooklyn after six successive tries.

A four-run rally in the eighth, capped by Del Rice's three-run blast off Preacher Roe, and a two-run addition in the ninth gave the Redbirds a 9 to 5 win over the Dodgers.

Stan Musial hit his fourteenth homer in the first with one on and Carl Furillo slammed one

LARRY JANSEN, ace righthander of the New York Giants and winner of nine games already this season, gives his son Dale some pointers on pitching form in the Polo Grounds between games. Jansen also has five daughters. (International)
